THE ISSUE.
The issue in the local election is narrowed to this question, as stated by the Herald a fortnight ago:
"Do the people run this city, or do the friends of the hoodlums who are now in Sing Sing or Cananda?"

Since the issue was thus clearly stated the "friends of the hoodlums" have been reinforced by two once-powerful morning newspapers, that have abandoned, without assigned cause, the advocacy of Mr. NICOLL's nomination for District Attorney. Yet this need not and does not discourage the friends of honest government. The press is powerful only when it is true to its honest convictions—when it champions the cause of the people against hoodlums, bribers and rogues of every kind.
With the issue thus made up the choice of Mr. NICOLL as public prosecutor is of more importance to the citizens of New York than any other question involved in the election.

HELLER'S MISSION.
The widespread popular interest aroused by HELLER'S story in the Sunday World of her remarkable sojourn in the insane asylum on Blackwell's Island should bear some fruit of reform.

Her mission was undertaken, not for sensational purposes, but to ascertain the exact facts about a public institution peculiarly inaccessible to public scrutiny. Her simply told story is instinct with the force of truth in every line.
The hemming and hawing and hedging of the doctors and attendants avail nothing. The facts are out. Reform is imperative in the methods of treating the poor, unbalanced creatures incarcerated in the Asylum. An increased appropriation is obviously required for the better maintenance of these institutions. It should be given without question. A little less for the hoodlums and harpies, and a little more for the helpless wards of the city.

THE MEETING TO-NIGHT.
It is quite safe to say that there will be no wild charges or clubbing by the police at the meeting of the Progressive Labor party in Union Square to-night. Public opinion has declared itself too indignantly in relation to the outrage of a week ago to have any danger of its repetition.

The injunctions of Mr. SHEVITCH to his sympathizers are sensible and timely. "Let every man constitute himself his own policeman," and "avoid everything which might give rise to interruptions or confusion of any kind," and there will be no difficulty.

New York is in no danger from liberty that is not license, nor from freedom that is not incendiary. The right of peaceful public assembly must not be interfered with. Give to truth the "open field" from which she never yet retired discomfited.

THE PEOPLE'S LAND.
It might have gone without saying that the Northern Pacific Railroad will "contest in the courts" the order of the Interior Department opening to settlement thousands of acres of public lands which it has long illegally held in its devil-dah tentacles.
That is the corporation way—grab all you can and never let go.

The thing for the Government to do is to put the settlers in possession and then let the company fight. The "nine points of the law" have too long been enjoyed by this land-grabbing corporation.

The people's land for the people is the true motto.

BOSTON'S PRIDE.
The announcement that Boston's ten thousand dollar baseball, MICK KELLY, is to travel with a minstrel company in the capacity of interlocutor during the winter season, indicates that the Hub is ambitious of recovering her prestige as an intellectual centre.

The renown of BURNES, of SULLIVAN and of the Only Mink in the ball field, does not quite satisfy her. With the aroma of "Boston colicah" breathed over a minstrel performance, from one end of this benighted land to the other, the loss of the literary sceptre will be in a measure recouped.

Now let the mighty MICK put a "short stop" to minstrel chestnuts, miff the "rats," catch on the fly all the good things going and so if he can win a higher than fifth place for the Hub minstrele.

A WELCOME TO DICKENS.
Mr. CHARLES DICKENS, Jr., who arrived from England this morning, will find that his great father, the master novelist, is not yet forgotten in this country. We have reared a school of mosaic realism and fine-spun sentimentalism in fiction. But DICKENS is yet without a peer, and none are more faithful in their appreciation than the American people.
His father's genius is simple introduction for the younger DICKENS. But he will be judged on his own merits, and esteemed, we trust, for his own sake.

MRS. POTTER'S RETURN.
Mrs. JAMES BROWN POTTER is with us once again. Does historic renown await her on her native heath? What man and particularly what woman can doubt it? She brings forty-three trunks full of new Wardrobes!
Mrs. POTTER has certainly shown persistence, and that counts on the boards as everywhere else. She has been plucky, too. And that is a quality Americans particularly admire.
As for the London critics, they never agree about anything. We will gaze at Mrs. POTTER, her revised acting and her magnificent new wardrobe with American eyes.

THE TWIN RELIO MUST GO.
Polygamy, that alien trait of barbarism, dies hard. Cherished and defended as a religion, it manages to evade law and defy justice.
The bulwark of this un-American system is the Mormon hierarchy. This is a despotism within the Republic. It exacts from its members and victims an allegiance outranking that due to the National Government. The religio-civil Mormon Church is in reality inchoate rebellion. A standing rebellion should not be permitted on United States territory.

The hierarchy is now opposing the enforcement of the law for the dissolution of the Mormon close corporations. A hearing of the case begins to-day. The Government should make it evident that it proposes to enforce the law.

A PARTISAN FLING.
THEODORE ROOSEVELT, who once proclaimed himself an independent, has degenerated into a partisan of the partisans. He now indulges in a gratuitous fling at the prohibitionists, dubbing them "cranks" and "gentlemen of doubtful political honesty."
The plain fact of the matter is, that the prohibitionists, and the GEORGE men as well, have nothing to fear in a comparison on the score of honesty with either of the old parties. The new organizations are fighting distinctively for what they conceive to be important moral and reformatory ideas. They may be mistaken in their theories, but their honesty cannot be questioned.

THE MR. WILL MAKE A STR.
WONG CHUN FOO, author of "Why I Am a Heathen," is devoting his energies to another article, entitled "Why do the Heathen Rage?" His individual answer to this venerable conundrum is: "Because they are taxed $50 whenever they enter Canada."
The MS. is to be filed with Secretary BAYARD, and international complications may follow.
Having received the Spartan training of a journalist, THEODORE WOOD BARNES may be able to withstand the enervating effects of a $1,000,000 wedding present. But in a majority of cases it is far better for young couples to be tossed into the world to make the fight for themselves.

The politicians who are tugging away at the wires in behalf of the hoodlums, exiled and at home, should look out for the lightning of popular indignation. It is liable to play havoc with wires, and has been known to shivel reckless operators.

The fascinating pastime of train robbing has received a temporary check in El Paso. A brave express messenger varied the ordinary proceedings in such cases by killing two of the robbers without ceremony. Encore!

Millionaire MORROW, the TWEED of San Francisco, has been arrested for offering financial arguments to a jury. The boodle plant grows rank in every soil where the sickle of justice is dulled or delayed.

The Boston blue-law people are endeavoring to prevent the sale of tobacco on Sunday. If they succeed, the clergymen of the Hub will have to lay in their supply of post-meriton cigars on Saturday.

Weather-cock journalism may be sensational, but it is destitute of influence. The people trust those journals only that have a fixed principle of action and are as true to it as the needle to the pole.

The gleaming after THE WORLD's great news-harvesting machine is still industriously followed by several of its next-day contemporaries. The pickings really give them quite a sheaf of news.

The ROCKEFELLER brothers, of the Standard Oil Company, are said to be unostentatiously very charitable. Monopoly needs a good deal of seasoning to make it palatable.

There is likely to be a further die in the SHARP case. Why can't we have some centreboard justice?

They Can Forgive That.
(From the Pittsburgh Dispatch.)
It might have some influence on the ambitious hoodlums who sign to be considered aristocrats if they knew that the truly aristocratic families are generally just, and even more frequently decidedly stupid.

BLAINE IS GAY AND HAPPY.

HIS FRIENDS THINK HE WILL NOT RUN FOR PRESIDENT NEXT YEAR.

Remarkable Statements of Acquaintances Who Have Lately Passed Through London.
—Mr. Blaine Is Not Ill or Discouraged, Still They Say He Is Not Likely to Be the Next Republican Candidate for President.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE EVENING WORLD.]
LONDON, Oct. 17.—Mr. Blaine has now been in Paris for two weeks, and many of his friends who have seen him there, as well as many who met him in Germany, Austria and Switzerland, have lately passed through London en route to America. There is something strange in the fact that all of these friends have gained the impression that Mr. Blaine does not desire to be nominated for the Presidency next year.

Some of them, indeed, put it that he does not intend to be a candidate. If asked, however, whether they speak authoritatively, these gentlemen invariably say "no," but still give their impression with great confidence.

When asked, as many of them had been, whether this assumed intention of Mr. Blaine's originates from consideration of his health, they answer that such consideration is impossible, for Mr. Blaine is in better health and looks gay than he has for ten years. Nor do they infer that Mr. Blaine's position is based upon any discouragement in the political situation. It is well known by all who have talked with him that Mr. Blaine regards the prospect of Republican success in 1888 as infinitely better than it appeared in 1884, when the defeat was so narrow.

I state these facts without coloring or without speculation thereon, further than to say that such conclusions may be taken with caution so long as Mr. Blaine authorizes no public statement. But the fact remains, that all of Mr. Blaine's friends who have been in Europe this summer carry home the impression that the Republican candidate of 1884 will not be in the field next year.

MRS. POTTER AND HER GOWNS.

Home Again with a Lot of Them [Which Worth Would Call Dreams].

Mrs. James Brown Potter came back from Europe yesterday imbued with the excellent idea that "actions, not words" will best suit her purposes. The hackneyed utterances of transatlantic dramatic arrivals she positively scorned. She declined to gush about the dear public, did not make a point of the fact that she was glad to be back in America, and told no stories about the Prince of Wales and the English aristocracy.

The only little luxury she allowed herself and it was an expensive one, was a description of the costumes which she will wear in "Mlle. de Bressier."
Mrs. Potter has what Worth would call "sundry" dreams in the way of dresses, and she has been connected in the heretofore rightly imagined that other people would like to hear about them.
Mrs. Potter declared that she had no intention, when she came to London, of wearing in England. She was anxious to secure an engagement in the stock company of the Haymarket Theatre, for the sake of the experience it would give her.

Mr. Potter's first performance by auction on Oct. 19, and there will doubtless be some interesting bidding.

ELECTRICIAN MOFFATT'S ESCAPE.

A Scene of Excitement in the Western Union Operating Room.

John Moffatt, one of the best known and most skillful electricians in the operating department of the Western Union office, 195 Broadway, had a one-minute encounter with a dynamo battery last Friday which he will remember as long as he lives. He was engaged in testing one of the loops which runs from the main office in Broadway street, and had occasion to use a dynamo battery. Mr. Moffatt went behind the switchboard to handle the wires and another electrician, who was standing by, saw him. A moment later there was an awful yell from behind the switchboard, and the 500 employees in the room thought their day had come.
Moffatt went quickly to the screaming Mr. Moffatt, who had a ground wire in one hand and the dynamo wire in the other and was unable to let go of either. The second electrician, who was standing by, saw him. A moment later there was an awful yell from behind the switchboard, and the 500 employees in the room thought their day had come.

FIGS AND THISTLES.

A gigantic and beautiful statue of the Dromedary has been unearthed near Bala, on the Gulf of Naples, Italy.

Mrs. Lantry has ordered for her private use a Mann bonnet car, which is to cost $30,000, and work on it was begun last Wednesday.

Mrs. Dorman, of Sumter County, Ga., has sent to the Piedmont Exposition in Atlanta a crazy quilt composed of 25,000 pieces of silk, in each of which there are about twenty stitches.

A San Juan boy's leg was amputated because of injury and buried in the Catholic cemetery. The next night he suffered intense agony, complaining that the toes of the amputated limb were cramped. The leg was disinterred, the toes straightened, and the pain has not bothered him since.

The packing industry is steadily going West. A syndicate of Chicago men has notified the merchants of Reno, Nev., that it will invest $5,000,000 in slaughtering-houses there and dress the beef on the spot, instead of shipping the live stock to the Eastern packing-houses.

They tell of cows down in Florida that from constant feeding on sea moss, in the absence of grass, have become aquatic in their tastes. They swim and dive with great ease, and in their water lives have but one enemy, the eel, which attacks itself to their udders and extracts all the milk.

A wild man who for twenty years had lived the life of a hermit in the woods near Beaumont, Tex., was captured some months ago and brought into town, where a little cottage was given him and every effort made to civilize him. But he pined for the hardships of his old life and died.

An Indian appeared in Dayton, W. T., in full war paint and ran amuck through the streets, terrifying the town. Everybody got away before him until a muscular clergyman named Chamberlain appeared on the scene with a horsewhip and drove the infuriated red man into the mountains.

The missing link has been found among the Clayoquot Indians of British Columbia. He has the stature of a man, but his face looks like a monkey's, although he lacks the hairy coat that usually covers an ape. He shambles along on all fours and finds great difficulty in standing erect. He cannot talk.

Late exchanges from Honolulu describe the splendid funeral procession that accompanied the remains of His Highness Prince Edward Abel Keilani to their last resting-place. The Prince died of typhoid fever during the last week of September. He was eighteen years old, and a youth of great promise.

FIGURING ON THE LABOR VOTE.

President French and Henry George Think the Democrats Will Suffer Most.

President Stephen B. French, of the Board of Police, is an intense partisan Republican, and never fails to score a point for his political friends when he can. To an EVENING WORLD reporter he said yesterday:
"The Republicans will carry this State this fall sure as my name is French. Every report received shows that the people are ripe for a change, and the division in the Democratic ranks by a separate labor party will add greatly to the Republican majority."

"Where do you place the labor vote?"
"The labor vote in New York and Brooklyn alone will reach 100,000, in my opinion," Mr. French said exultantly, "and that will give the Republicans a solid majority."

"How much of the labor vote will come from the Republicans?"
"Not over 10 per cent., or 10,000, as against 50,000 drawn from the Democrats. I am not prepared to say how large the labor vote will be in the State, but it will be heavy in all the large cities. The prohibition vote in this State will be about 50,000—so that it is easily seen that the bulk of the loss will fall upon the Democrats. This assures the State to the Republicans. It will be the first year for 1888 and means the election of a Republican President. We are ready for a change. The old parties are down, and the people want something new."

"Who will be the next Secretary of State?"
"I think George O. Colver, of Grant, would not believe the Democracy has a ghost of a chance in the coming election. Our vote will come very largely from the Democrats." Mr. French then hurried away to catch a train. He was not alone, but was followed by Poughkeepsie, Yonkers and other cities. His debate with Mr. Shevitch will take place next Sunday evening. It has been proposed that the Anti-Republicans be invited to meet at that night, and the debate take place in the Academy of Music. Mr. Shevitch favors this arrangement, and it is believed that Mr. George will.

"I am not a good guesser," he continued, "but I think the voters' vote for the United Labor party will be 300,000, and I believe it will reach 500,000. Wherever I have spoken, I have received the attention of everybody, especially the farmers. The people are ready for a change. The old parties are down, and the people want something new."

AS OTHERS SEE US.

What the World's Bright Exchanges Are Saying of the Evening Paper.

[From the Epoch.]
Now comes THE WORLD with a one-cent evening issue, whose success seems likely to be as brilliant as that of its parent journal.

[From the Buffalo Express.]
The entrance of THE NEW YORK WORLD into the field of evening journalism has forced the conservative afternoon papers of the metropolis to take measures to protect their circulation against inroads.

[From the Birmingham Herald.]
The first issue of the New York Evening World was published Monday and was received with great favor by the public, the actual number of papers printed and reaching the almost phenomenal figure of 111,410.

[From the Pittsburgh Post.]
THE EVENING WORLD will probably soon achieve the lead of the cheap New York evening press, as the morning edition has in its larger field. It is bright and new and has an individuality apart from the morning issue very difficult to achieve.

[From the Atlanta Times.]
The morning journals of New York appear to have been overtaken by a storm to start evening editions. The latest born, the evening edition of THE WORLD, contains six pages, is sold for a cent a copy, and promises to be a lively and influential addition to independent journalism.

[From the Washington Intelligencer.]
The New York World, which has made so great a success of its morning edition, is now out with an evening paper that will make some of the old fellows hesitate to hold their own. In New York journalism capable men with capital seem to be able to accomplish what they please.

[From the New York Commercial Advertiser.]
The New York Evening World starts out with this declaration of honorable intentions: "Truthfulness in all things; independence of all parties, influences and personal interests; fearlessness in the exposure of abuses; sympathy with the weak and oppressed; constancy in demanding equal justice for all."

[From the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser.]
The New York Evening World has about the same look as the morning edition and is as full of news, comment and good editing as the other. THE WORLD is an extraordinary paper, and shows a rare appreciation of the changed conditions of modern journalism in publishing an evening edition.

[From the Boston (N. J.) Index.]
The first issue of the New York Evening World was made on Monday last, and like its morning edition, was chock-full of news. It was a six-page sheet with seven columns to the page, and was filled with advertising. It has all the elements about it which indicate it will be a success. There were 111,400 copies printed and sold of the first issue.

[From the Camden (N. J.) Advance Journal.]
The New York World began the publication of an evening edition of that paper on Monday. This journal is having a phenomenal growth and its different issues are of immense proportions. THE WORLD is a Democratic organ, yet is fearless to the hilt in its support of the right, irrespective of party.

[From the Minneapolis Journal.]
The New York World is probably the best morning newspaper in America. But it is not satisfied with the morning edition and has started an evening paper. The World appreciates the inconsistency of holding over news from one day to another when it might as well be given to the public the next day. We welcome the new paper with enthusiasm for THE EVENING WORLD than for the morning hold-over.

[From the Shelbyville (Ind.) Democrat.]
The New York World has started an evening edition, and as might be expected, leaps at once to the front and knocks them all out. THE EVENING WORLD is a charming publication, and is run by the same hand and the same heart that have so long made the morning World what it is. We like it, and hope to chronicle its success in the same unmeasured terms we have seen proper to bestow on the daily edition of the same paper.

[From the Albany Union.]
The New York World last evening issued for the first time an evening edition, and as THE WORLD never undertakes anything without a purpose, it is sufficient to say that its latest move is in the right direction. It is bright and new, with all the characteristics for which THE WORLD is famous and which have made the paper such a power. THE EVENING WORLD starts out well and certainly deserves all the success which is its due.

THEY WANT TO BE JUSTICES.

MEN WILLING TO PRESIDE OVER THE COURTS OF THE POOR.

Ten Justices of the Civil District Courts to be Chosen at the Coming Election—The Names of the Candidates for the Districts of the City and County Democracy—Who Are Most Likely to Draw the Prizes.

ICH and poor alike resort to the Civil District courts for their legal rights. They are, however, better known as the courts of the poor, where many tales of poverty, misery, oppression and cruelty are daily told. Exact and diligent haste to these courts to dispose of non-paying tenants, and some of the evictions are as barbarous as those practiced on the other side of the ocean. The furniture and effects of an unfortunate tenant of a rear, top floor, six-story barracks, are placed on the sidewalk and then carted to the Corporation Yard, while a poor sewing girl who has obtained a judgment against a dishonest and unfeeling employer will have her decree entered in a great big book, and her employer will hide his indebtedness behind a fraudulent assignment.

If there should be any justice dispensed in this city, it should be in these courts, where the poorer people have to appeal for their rights and their wages. They are people who know little of the meshes of the law and who, above all others, need the protection that the law gives. The justices of the Civil District courts, therefore, should be men who would recognize the right in rags as against the wrong in silks or broadcloth.

There are eleven of these petty but important tribunals scattered throughout the city, and politics has a grip on nearly every one of them. The justice may be kind-hearted, an honest law-giver and may try to mete out mercy with a good deal of discretion, but he is not to machine influence are ever ready to make overcharges, while busy and greedy city marshals, with red faces and stony hearts, are always in a hurry to throw the poor people out of their homes, and to make overcharges for non-payment of rent. It must be said, however, that a few of the justices do in their power to prevent subordinates from exacting blood-money from those who enter the portals of the courts.

At the coming election ten civil justices are to be chosen. There will be no election in the Tenth District, Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth wards, East Seventy-second street, where Justice George W. Leland, Jackson Rogers was recently elected for a term that does not expire for some years. Successors are to be elected to Civil Justices in the First, Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, Twelfth, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Fifteenth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Eighteenth, Nineteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-first, Twenty-second, Twenty-third, Twenty-fourth, Twenty-fifth, Twenty-sixth, Twenty-seventh, Twenty-eighth, Twenty-ninth, Thirtieth, Thirty-first, Thirty-second, Thirty-third, Thirty-fourth, Thirty-fifth, Thirty-sixth, Thirty-seventh, Thirty-eighth, Thirty-ninth, Fortieth, Forty-first, Forty-second, Forty-third, Forty-fourth, Forty-fifth, Forty-sixth, Forty-seventh, Forty-eighth, Forty-ninth, Fiftieth, Fifty-first, Fifty-second, Fifty-third, Fifty-fourth, Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth, Sixtieth, Sixty-first, Sixty-second, Sixty-third, Sixty-fourth, Sixty-fifth, Sixty-sixth, Sixty-seventh, Sixty-eighth, Sixty-ninth, Seventieth, Seventy-first, Seventy-second, Seventy-third, Seventy-fourth, Seventy-fifth, Seventy-sixth, Seventy-seventh, Seventy-eighth, Seventy-ninth, Eightieth, Eighty-first, Eighty-second, Eighty-third, Eighty-fourth, Eighty-fifth, Eighty-sixth, Eighty-seventh, Eighty-eighth, Eighty-ninth, Ninetieth, Ninety-first, Ninety-second, Ninety-third, Ninety-fourth, Ninety-fifth, Ninety-sixth, Ninety-seventh, Ninety-eighth, Ninety-ninth, and the Hundredth.
